AAOM Regenerative Orthopaedic Medicine Mentorship Clinic

October 26 - 28, 2017

The focus of the AAOM Regenerative Orthopaedic Medicine Mentorship Clinic is to develop and evolve each physician mentee in the advancement of their practice and techniques in Interventional Regenerative Orthopaedic Medicine (IROM).

The AAOM mentorship will provide active clinical experience with the Mentor taking part in the learning process side-by-side with the learner.

Mentors will prepare the mentees to think differently, to view, consider and understand alternatives or change that can only be learned by example from experience.

Experiential learning escalates growth. The AAOM Regenerative Orthopaedic Medicine Mentorship Clinic will plunge each learner right into practice, working on real patients with complex orthopedic concerns provoking a different way of thinking, evaluating, treating, and practicing.

The AAOM Mentor will make Interventional Regenerative Orthopaedic Medicine understandable and practical, by using their own experience to demonstrate their procedures by activity, showing you then you show them by your own newly learned practice.

The AAOM Mentorship focuses on teaching, demonstrating, guiding, and placing his hand on your hand to transfer experience to elevate your skills and practice to improve outcomes for your patients.
